

2022 OUTDOOR FURNITURE TRENDS

The last 18 months has seen a seismic shift in the way outdoor space is used. No longer an afterthought, the garden now plays a pivotal role and is at the forefront of design, increasingly treated like an extra living space.

Serious budgets are now allocated to outdoor living at the onset of residential projects with outdoors rooms designed with flexibility to function as a traditional indoor space for family and friends to lounge, dine and entertain.

A move in mindsets, growth in appreciation of nature and a better understanding of the wellbeing benefits of outdoor living along with innovation in performance fabrics has seen the garden area take centre stage. Coco Wolf has highlighted key outdoor living directions for 2022.

Trend #1 – Sustainability

With sustainability at its core, Coco Wolf predicts vast growth in this area. With new technologies and recycling processes making it ever more possible to create functional, aesthetically pleasing and durable outdoor furniture pieces, the scope for sustainability is infinite.

Designed to last, Coco Wolf furniture is hand made in the UK by skilled craftsmen. From using sustainable FSC Certified wood and fabrics made from recycled plastic bottles to all power coming from renewable sources and no waste going to landfill, every component of the production process has been finely tuned to meet high sustainability and environmental standards.

Trend #2 – Nature inspired

Taking inspiration from Mother Nature, Coco Wolf forecasts organic silhouettes and raw textures will be paired with robust timber frames with delicate wood grain. Outdoor seating inspired by soft weathered pebbles sat alongside enveloping armchairs upholstered in tactile boucle will create an inviting outdoor living space that harmoniously blends nature with function.

Stars of outdoor lounge space are the modular sofas from the Porto collection inspired by the untamed beauty of the natural landscape.

Trend #3 – Al fresco living

Traditionally a space heavily used in the summer to entertain, exercise and unwind, Coco Wolf predicts that in 2022, the garden or terrace will truly be seen as an extension of the home, being used throughout the year and more importantly daily. A well considered outdoor living space will wear many hats. From an everyday dining area and home office station to a warm winter nook with open fire, the garden is set to be the new heart of the home.

Trend #4 - Wide Stripes

Stripes embody the best of summer as well as being a design for all seasons. Coco Wolf takes a bold direction with fashionable wide stripes seen here the Aparima loungers from the Azur Collection.

About Coco Wolf

Coco Wolf make your interiors thrive outside all year round. The chic Coco and the wilder Wolf converge in a brand that takes exterior design to exciting places. Here furniture that looks like it should be indoors goes outside, making a seamless flow between the two. These British crafted collections are as elegant as they are easy-to care for and resilient.

Coco Wolf was founded in 2014 by talented husband-and-wife team, James and Rebecca Lorimer establishing an outdoor furniture business that quickly evolved into a sought-after, design-led, ethical brand with its own UK manufacturing facility.

Coco Wolf take inspiration from the best maritime designs, using hard-wearing, water-resistant construction and upholstery materials to create luxurious yet low-maintenance furniture pieces that are built to last. Desirable, durable and distinctive furniture that performs brilliantly and is perfectly at home in the outdoors –whatever the environment.
